Allsup Disability Study: Income at Risk

The unemployment rate for people with disabilities jumped in the first quarter of 2012.

15-month unemployment rates

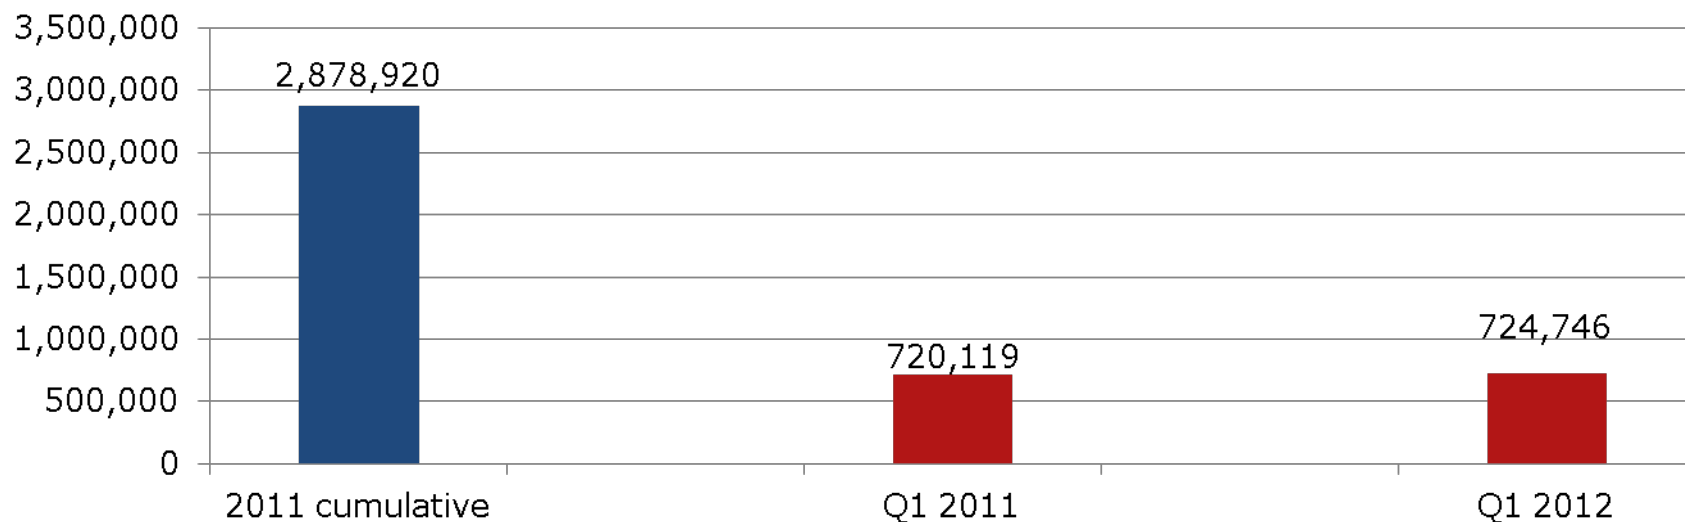

After a few months of recording relatively stable, lower rates of unemployment in late 2011 and January 2012, the unemployment rate for people with disabilities jumped in February and March 2012 to rates not seen since the second quarter of 2011. People with disabilities consistently had greater volatility and higher rates of unemployment than those without disabilities throughout 2011 and the first part of 2012.
